The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life; in fact, it appears never to stop growing until death. If one will take the trouble to look around in any assemblage of people, as at church, he will discover that the old folks have ears considerably larger than those of the middle aged.

Refuses to Grant Permit for Tournament Under Sanction of the A. A. U.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 3.—If Mayor Hayes' plans are carried out there will be no more prizefighting in this city. An amateur tournament under the sanction of the Amateur Alaletic Union, was arranged by Charles J. Weiss, and was to have been held within the near future at Broadway Institute. When the mayor was asked for a permit he refused to grant one. He stated that he would issue no permits for boxing exhibitions.

The men having the management of the tournament secured a permit from the police department, and although this the police department, and although this property in the world state of the middle aged. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at twenty years of age will be very apt to possess medium sized ears at forty years should go on growing all one's life any more than noses is a mystery. There are a good many points about them that are instructive, their shapes being markedly persistent through heredity. Any ear will be handed down, so to speak, from father to son for generation after generation with comparatively little modification. Some authorities on criminology assert that criminals are very apt to possess a peculiar kind of ear, which is recognized by an expert in such matters.

the tournament secured a permit from the police department, and although this was shown Mayor Hayes he refused to grant the necessary license. Weiss endeavored to persuade him that only amateurs were to participate in the coming tournament, and that the boxing bouts were to be between amateurs and therefore different from the professional exhibitions.

His honor falled to recognize any distinction, and informed Weiss that Ballimore sports had witnessed their last fight in the Monumental City.
